

awm32

spiral score for solo flute

Gavin Osborn

notes:

awm32 was written to commemorate the retirement of Andrew Morris after 32 years as Director of Music at Bedford School, & was performed by the composer at a celebratory concert at the school in June 2011.

the score may be played in 2 ways:

- following the score pathway, playing each element in order, with the performer responsible for the relative tempi & how each element relates to the others
- as more of an improvisation, ignoring the spiral pathway and moving between any element at choice, with the same responsibility for performative & musical interpretation as above
